| YOU | HAPPINESS | BRAIN | FRENCH | COFFEE | MIRROR | CHOICE | PATIENT | DATA | MIDDLE |

| ...you could go on with this metaanalysis forever. But I would like to show you that in the middle... | ...happiness cannot be pinned down, it is evasive. It's the same way that in the middle... | ...brain to always think straight. I'll give you an illustration of this: In the middle... | ...French intellectuals ridiculing these things. And - admittedly - when you look at the middle... | ...coffee which makes you both happy and excited. How many of you would prefer that to tea? I think it's just like when the middle... | ...mirror can stop us from being so unbelievably disrespectful. (Applause.) Thank you very much. It's just that in the middle... | ...choice to believe health data of the United States or not. You know, in the middle... | ...patient who hated art. I told him " you don't have to worry about it", because in the middle... | ...data to create beautiful statistics. All of a sudden , people noticed that in the middle... | ...middle of the crisis, money already starts flowing in again et cetera, et cetera. Imagine that: Right in the middle... |
| ...you will see this idea stretching everyone's spark the imagination. (Applause.) Thank you very much. I want to use this data... | ...happiness is not something we can learn of the United States. We have very good data... | ...brain to tell you that it needs to rest a little. But I would like to use the underlying data... | ...French bread that is supposed to be perfect but isn't always. It's the same way that you need a lot of data... | ...coffee - you know it will be wonderful. I'll give you some related data... | ...mirror may make you look at the underlying science. In fact, there is very good data... | ...choice - but of course we also need surprises. How many of you believe that I could use only data... | ...patient who came in bored but all of a sudden this intense need for creativity made him feel alive again. I could use this data... | ...data et cetera, et cetera. On hearing this, everyone feels that they're not enough data... | ...middle of all this information, there's a hidden meaning. You don't have to be an engineer to see that you need data... |
| ...you will see this difference once you look at the science behind it all. Consider this: There was a patient... | ...happiness does not imply to constantly feel happy. How many of you would agree? I once had a patient... | ...brain - at least I wouldn't put any money on. (Laughter.) Thank you very much. See, my doctor once had a patient... | ...French income distribution suddenly assuming that of the United States. In a way, this is similar to a patient... | ...coffee that's brewed just right. And I would like to tell you the related story of a patient... | ...mirror might be helpful the same way that it has been before. I then remembered the story of a patient... | ...choice to consciously solve a problem. To illustrate my point, I'll give you a very dramatic example of a patient... | ...patient who really made me want to reconsider my profession et cetera, et cetera. I think it was my first patient... | ...data freely available on the internet. You don't have to be a one-buttock player like my first patient... | ...middle of voyages, there are often beautiful places that you miss. I would like to compare this to a patient... |
| ...you are looking at the health of the United States. We a real choice... | ...happiness is a continuous journey. (Applause.) Thank you very much. We truly have a choice... | ...brain to consider that it is mutating all the time. How many of you could think this way? It would be a good choice... | ...French products becoming a very ecological choice. You don't have to like it, but it is a choice... | ...coffee - that really has to be said once and for all. More importantly, all of a sudden there is this choice... | ...mirror will not get something bad fixed et cetera, et cetera. It's therefore much better to create a choice... | ...choice to change the world. One day I would like to have the choice... | ...patient who did not feel the same way that everyone would in his situation. Instead, he looked at the choice... | ...data on the quality of our lives. I'll give you a couple of things to ponder regarding this choice... | ...middle of conflicts, we tend to overrate overrating the differences at the side. If you look at the whole picture, there's a choice... |
| ...you need surprises - how many of you would not agree? I believe that a mirror... | ...happiness is a partial divergence from pure pleasure. When you look at the interaction of these two, it's as if a little mirror... | ...brain to weigh emotion and experimental evidence. You don't have to like it, but a mirror... | ...French people who get very old. And then all of a sudden , we realize that a mirror... | ...coffee making you jittery et cetera, et cetera. So I thought maybe a mirror... | ...mirror model is needed of the United States. Therefore, this mirror... | ...choice that requires great imagination. (Applause.) Thank you very much. I think that a mirror... | ...patient which I would like to introduce to you in more detail. Looking at myself in the mirror... | ...data of what's happening around us. It's the same way that a mirror... | ...middle there was a guy named Howard. I'll give you a glimpse of his wisdom. He told me to look into the mirror... |
| ...you have a great power with your vote. I'll give you a couple of examples regarding coffee... | ...happiness is a piece of art. You don't have to have three or four cups of coffee... | ...brain to be creative all of a sudden. It's like a weekend in Rome that's full of coffee... | ...French phrases such as " et cetera, et cetera ". But I should be more specific when referring to a milky weak coffee... | ...coffee because it helps to free decision making. (Laughter.) Thank you very much. So let's have some coffee... | ...mirror does not always reveal pleasant surprises. How many of you would rather consider coffee... | ...choice that I often discuss in my seminars. When you look at the student's, they rely on coffee... | ...patient who is health-wise on par with the average resident of the United States. He knows the benefits of coffee... | ...data in this world. I would like to make you think of it as coffee... | ...middle of it all, you could see the situation running the same way that a downward spiral would. It makes you yearn for coffee... |
| ...you can see this in several places, although you don't have to like it. A lot of it has to do with French... | ...happiness is to go along where life takes you. And all of a sudden , the world is full of French... | ...brain to recognize the exact way it's supposed to think et cetera, et cetera. It's like French... | ...French people being the first although anyone could do it. How many of you have ever thought about French... | ...coffee that you won't like if you look at how it was made. That would be like French... | ...mirror of our lives quickly leads to metaanalysis. I'll give you my opinion: It has to do with French... | ...choice to make something happen the same way that others have before us. Consider French... | ...patient where my performance was a disaster. (Laughter.) Thank you very much. But I just thought of the French... | ...data of the United States health situation. Compare this to French... | ...middle of the world lies all the knowledge and wisdom we need. I would like to remind you of French... |
| you can see the beauty sink in once you take the time. Then all of a sudden it becomes easy for the brain... | ...happiness also means keeping your back straight et cetera, et cetera. But most importantly, you need the brain... | ...brain to realize that you look at the averages only. In this case you want to get your brain... | ...French intellectuals telling us that the world looks like. As an alternative, I'll give you a sixth sense device, allowing the brain... | ...coffee that is quite nuanced in the same way that our neurons are. Efficient trimming causes the brain... | ...mirror for the world would help. For every single one of us, I would like to compare our brain... | ...choice to celebrate. You don't have to be superoutrageous while doing it. You can't just get your brain... | ...patient who never came back. How many of you would agree that I should have gotten my brain... | ...data to gain insight, but not make decisions. (Applause.) Thank you very much. I'm now going to show you we can get our brain... | ...middle of the income distribution, there's equality. You can't say that of the United States. It's hard for the brain... |
| ...you don't diverge from the path et cetera, et cetera. That's why I think the way to true happiness... | ...happiness also means looking at the history of our lives. I'll give you examples to show that happiness... | ...brain to change the same way that it did when you were a kid. Then happiness... | ...French global leaders. I would like to see more of them - and all other leaders - realizing that happiness... | ...coffee sponsored for by the administration of the United States. Who wouldn't agree that happiness... | ...mirror in the back does not make you a megahero. Fortunately, you don't have to be one, because happiness... | ...choice to say something. And then all of a sudden , it reveals itself that happiness... | ...patient who was very comfortable with himself. If you look at the science behind it, happiness... | ...data to avoid any surprises. But how many of you wouldn't see this as kind of a synthetic happiness? Real happiness... | ...middle of suppression, genius is often born. (Applause.) Thank you very much. This shows that happiness... |
| ...you need this the same way that you need food. It's not nose picking. You... | ...happiness can only be achieved by connecting with the world. I would like to share my experience with this. You... | ...brain to connect this information with what we know of the United States. However, once these patterns manifest, you... | ...French flying monks. (Laughter.) Thank you very much. You know, you... | ...coffee in the morning to get us all extremely excited. You don't have to freak out, but you... | ...mirror is by far not as nice as a photo panorama. All of a sudden , you... | ...choice although other people say it's bad et cetera, et cetera. But if you're creative and determined enough, you... | ...patient that ended up doing good for the world. I'll give you a couple of examples. You... | ...data to show the difference only once you look at the details. Otherwise it's just chunky spaghetti sauce. You... | ...middle of all this routine, creativity is essential. How many of you would challenge that? You... |
